

Abstract of the Disclosure

Methods, systems, and devices are provided for media platform testing. A method includes multiplexing media channels of a tester having a first type media card to media channels of a media platform having a media card of a 5 different type. The method further includes performing a media platform test routine between the tester and the media platform.